Youth Inclusion Support Programme for 8-18 years olds

Questions for consideration

- do you live in a high crime concern area?
- does your child have difficulty making friends?
- has your child been in trouble with the police?
- has your child been a victim of crime?
- are you aware of youth projects in your area?
- are you concerned with child health issues?

Aims

The Youth Inclusion Support Programme (YISP) aims to reduce the number of children who are involved or at risks of becoming involved in anti-social and offending behaviour by ensuring that they and their families receive assistance at the earliest opportunity.

Objective

Statutory and voluntary partners can refer children and parents who ask for support on to services and activities that may be able to help. The YISP lead recognises that numerous events in a child's life have varying consequences such as exclusion from school, homelessness, discrimination, domestic violence or being alienated.

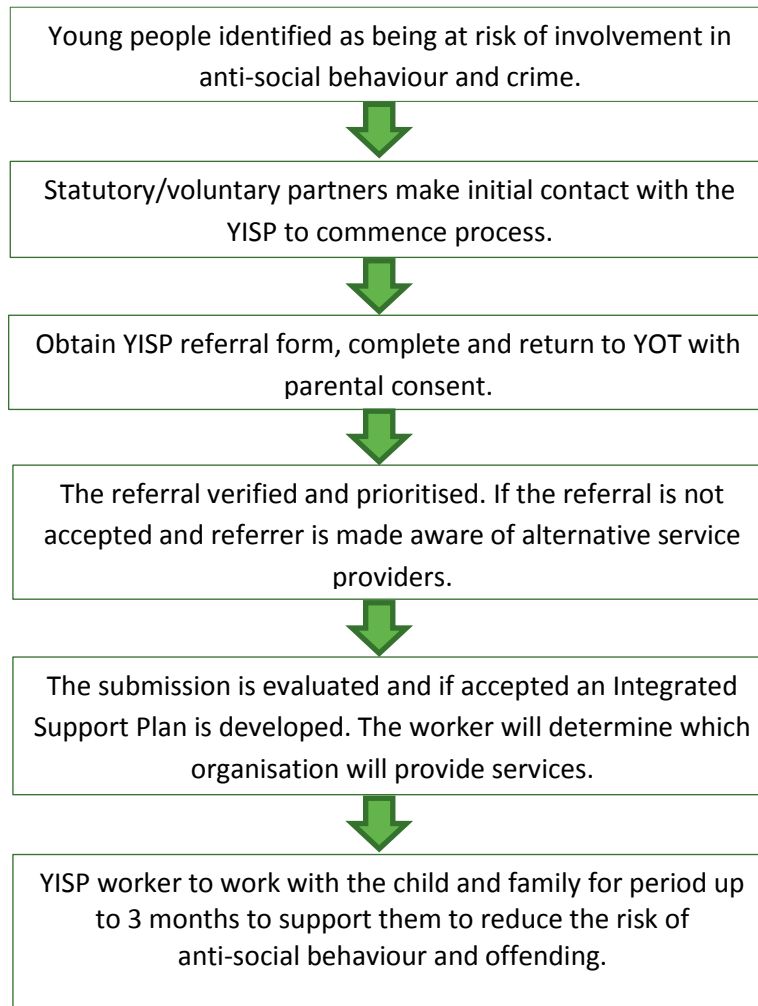

Eligibility

Children aged between 8-18 years olds who along with their parent/guardian consent to the referral. The YISP is preventative, focusing on those perceived to have the greatest assessed need. If a child is referred and not accepted, alternative suggestions/organisations will be offered.

Activities include

- anger / conflict management work
- parenting support
- personal development work
- cultural awareness
- after school clubs
- health advice
- sports activities.
